Dying Matters

Snippets From 17th Century Wills

2 bushells of wheate to be made and baked into 16 loaves of good bread and distributed at my funeral to 16 of the annuitant poore people of Milborne Port and for the like quantity of wheat and like manner to be bestowed upon Candlemas day (being the day of my birth for seven years next after my decease)

(Candlemas day 2nd February) my old age and the infirmities that accompany the same lands known by the name of Burkeslade lying and being in the manor of Kingsbury Regis yearly rent of a pepper corne one bedde with the furniture thereunto belonging, one large brasse kettle, one middling kettle, one brasse pott, a brasse candlestick, a chest and a coffer unto my brother in law Christian Perry my wife's wedding ring unto the poore of Milborne Port ten pounds to be distributed at the discretion of the church wardens and overseers amongst such as have most need unto William? my now servant six shillings and eight pence, and to Richard Harvey and William? of Weeke aforesaid my loving neighbours five shillings a piece my sons John Popley and Bat Popley my daughter Elizabeth all that household goods that was her grandmothers my daughter Mary £100 and the little chest over the kitchen chamber

I bequeath one piece of black cloth to be used at funeral so long as the cloth endureth the house and bark side called Hicks greene and also the house and bark side now in the possession of John Clarke called Pud brooke to be buried in the churchyard of Milborne Port on the right hand of Elinor my first wife there interred and an upright stone to be sett at my head situate near the Mill at Kingsbury Regis my wife and daughter shall inhabit together in my house and neither of them to lett or sell out the same to any other person or persons without the consent of the other halfe the garden, halfe the orchard and halfe the fruits an orchard called Gaynsbury unto the childe that my wief now goeth with all three hundred pounds be it boye or mayde to my sonne Thomas the sum of £40 per annum to bee paid out of Kingsbury farm all the implements belonging to my trade all my best wearing apparel and my best sword, a paire of pistolls and a saddle my well beloved father in law if my wife happen to marrie then I give unto my two sonnes half my bedding and linnen and half my household stuff